Volunteers Needed

JFK Medical Center and Muhlenberg Regional Medical Center Offer Volunteer Opportunities

Edison, NJ— JFK Medical Center and Muhlenberg Regional Medical Center have immediate needs for volunteers. With numerous openings, there are multiple opportunities for each volunteer.

“Volunteers are vital to the hospital’s daily operation,” states Scott Gebhard, Executive Vice President and COO of Solaris Health System. “Volunteers not only help staff but make a world of difference to patients.”

Solaris’ Volunteer Programs invites those of all backgrounds to join the team. In addition to the satisfaction of providing help to those who need it most, volunteers gain valuable networking opportunities, professional exposure and new skill sets that are beneficial outside of the hospital setting.

“When people volunteer, they demonstrate a love for their community,” says Nancy Fiamingo, Senior Vice President and COO of Muhlenberg. “Having a presence here-- working with staff and patients--is one of the greatest donations a person can give.”
